

News Release

For immediate release
15/03/07

'FULL ON' AT THE PEACE CENTRE

On Tuesday 22 June 2004 the Tim Parry Johnathan Ball Trust will celebrate the educational achievements of young people from Warrington and its surrounding areas. Young people who have participated in the Trust's 'Full On' programme will be presented with Certificates of Achievement by actor Dean Sullivan (Dean is known to millions as Jimmy Corkhill of Brookside Close) and Trust Chairman, Colin Parry OBE.

The 'Full On' programme is nationally accredited by the Open College Network. The programme includes units on anger management, anti-bullying, self-awareness, communication, conflict resolution, and citizenship. The programme has been researched, developed and written by the Trust and is unique in the UK. It aims to raise standards and attainment in schools, improve community relationships, overcome barriers to exclusion, increase access and participation in learning and enhance employability skills.

In the four years since the Peace Centre has been open, over 7000 young people have participated in Trust programmes with 2392 of these participating in the 'Full On' accredited programme.

The presentation will take place here at the Peace Centre on TUESDAY 22 JUNE 2004 at 7:00 pm.

Photographers and journalists welcome.

Further information is available on the Full On programme from: -

Bob Rathmill: Programme Manager

Tel: 01925 581235

Email: bob.rathmill@childrenforpeace.org

Website: www.childrenforpeace.org

The Tim Parry Johnathan Ball Trust
01925 581231
www.childrenforpeace.org